The following are potential ways to frame your reflection essay. It is not necessary to address all of the following points, but you can use them to get ideas.

Assignment Goals:

- How well did the proposal present a research question, rationale and request?
- How well did the proposal cite sources?
- How well did your annotated bibliography follow Chicago style?
- How well did the annotated bibliography summarize, evaluate and state relevance of each source?
- Did the annotated bibliography have all 8 sources?

Process:

- How did the feedback received on the draft help improve the project?
- How well did I manage my time when completing this project?
- What did we discover about what we need to do when writing?
- What difficulties did I face when completing this project?
- Did/how did I overcome those difficulties?

Links to Prof. Handy's Material:

- How did my project overlap with the projects being completed in Prof. Handy's class?

Other questions:

- How well do you believe you did on this project?
